A Walk Through Time

The past helps us to know who we are, who we have been, and sometimes where we are going. For this reason we have chosen "A Walk Through Time" to be the theme for this year's yearbook. Tennessee Wesleyan College has a rich history that many of its students do not know, and we hope that through this yearbook the students will begin to realize and appreciate its history. For example, TWC has its own historical landmark in the building named Old College, which happened to be a hospital used during the Civil War. TWC also used to be a college primarily for women. The dedication of this college to the United Methodist Church from past to present is another example of how this institution has focused on maintaining its traditions and values throughout time. We feel, these types of historical facts are important to be embedded throughout our yearbook, which will one day be a piece of history itself.

We hope you as students will have a stronger sense of pride for TWC after seeing where it has been, where it is, and where it is going, as you begin your journey with "A Walk Through Time."

Sincerely,

Megan Kellar
Co-Editor

Where Everybody Knows Your Name

Moving away from home can be a drastic change for some college students, but once most students become comfortable with their dormitory surroundings, a whole new attitude presents itself. The girls in Keith Hall share a tight bond with each other because of their living arrangements and the emphasis placed on making your dorm room your home. There are three girls to a suite, who share a bathroom. Since there is only one girl's dorm on campus, it doesn't take long for girls to bond with each other and develop lifelong friendships. Whether it's a chick flick movie fest on a Friday night, or a late night study session with a visit from the Papa John's delivery man, living in Keith Hall has made the college experience for girls a lifetime of memories.

Footsteps in Fowler

By: Harrison Hart and Jeff Duncan

Late night study hours, video game marathons, movies by the dozen: That's the nature of the dormitory experience of Fowler Hall. Pizza, pizza, soda, and more pizza is the menu at the men's college residence, and pot-luck football gatherings are not uncommon. The small college atmosphere allows for a terrific community experience and dorm life is an excellent example of this. Sharing everything from DVDs to printers, the males showcase their resourcefulness in a variety of fashions. "Dorm life makes me appreciate the value of good friends," said Adam Hubble. "It's like we work together to help each other have fun."

Dorm life is not for everyone at Tennessee Wesleyan College, but neither is staying at home with their parents. So, where do these people go? Well, some have the privilege of living in the apartments on campus, but this option is not available until they are of sophomore status. They also have to be willing to pay a little more than they would Geoffrey Cole does his homework under his bed, an advantage that those in the dorms don't have.

in the dorm. The persons who live in the apartments have the luxury of a kitchen and a living room. Available to them also is the choice of a ten or twenty-one weekly meal plan. Apartment residence find these liberties - as well as more space to entertain friends - well worth the extra cost.

Getting the Goods

By: Cherelle Rowe

Tennessee Wesleyan College offers a challenging curriculum for the students. The ACR classes at TWC allow the students to become very well rounded. The teachers are wonderful at TWC. If a student ever has a question about something in his class, the teacher is usually more than willing to help his students, and some will help at any cost. TWC is a great place to get an education for all of these reasons and more.

Homecoming week is a full week dedicated to activities, competitions, athletic events, and welcoming alumni returning "home." The week started off with a competition between all clubs and organizations called the Bulldog Olympics. Members participated in a mock Olympics with cash prizes for the winners. Many students also participated in Casino

Night, an event where students had fake money to play casino games such as slot machines, blackjack, and craps. When students weren't playing, they were busy working to win the banner competition and creating floats for the parade. There was also

Rockin' Religion

By: Megan Kellar and Cherele Rowe

The Student Government Association formed a concert committee this year. The committee's members were Joel Honeycutt, Chris Lee, Anna Maynard, and Megan Kellar was the committee chairperson. The committee wanted to bring a Christian concert to campus this year, so so when considering artists for the event, the committee knew right away that Christian Rock singer Jeremy Camp would be welcomed by an enthused audience. Along with Jeremy Camp was an upcoming band named Seven Places who gave a very energetic performance. The crowd got into the music so much, you could feel the floor shake. It was an amazing night of worship and life changing experiences. Everyone left feeling energetic and moved by the music and testimonies of Jeremy Camp and Seven Places.

Walking in a Winter Wonderland

By: Harrison Hart

The weekend of May 1, students from Tennessee Wesleyan embarked on a journey. Their mission: to ski the snowy slopes of West Virginia's Snowshoe resort. First timers and veterans alike enjoyed the oddly sunny conditions while tackling the terrain of one of the east's top ski resorts. When not skiing, there were still many things to do, whether hitting a nice restaurant, visiting the "village" shops, or even relaxing inside by the fire. The long and grueling drive turned out to be well worth it as the annual trip was quite possibly the best yet.

Just what the Doctor Ordered

By: Harrison Hart

After hard work in an instance begging to a new semester, Tennessee Wesleyan students are in need of a much deserved break. Fortunately, every spring TWC offers this opportunity to the students in the form of a week of no classes. Whether the students decide to use this break for vacation or to spend it just being at home, all share in common that a week away from classes is a definite benefit. Patrick Williams stated that just "playing video games and sleeping" was the best thing for him. Some traveled to beaches and other various places, others were involved in school, off-campus activities, such as choir tour and the B.C.M. mission trip. No matter what was done, all would agree that the break from classes was a relief of much stress.

Explosion of Talent

By Cherelle Rowe

Tennessee Wesleyan College has a tradition of putting on a Talent Show every year. This year's was just as fabulous as all of the others. Perry Philpott did a great job being the host. He, with the help of Stan Hallot, gave away free prizes to those who answered their random questions first. The prizes ranged from frizbees to ten dollar bills. The acts this year varied. The contestants are as follows:

Dustin Barrett and Jeffery Duncan- song; Monica Ward- song; Jodi Mull- song; Mary Armes- song; Jennifer Wallis- song; Casey Caughman and Shannon Burger- song; Netra Landsen- song; Sarah Kyker- dance; Dee Pierce and Turner Donaldson- dance. All of the contestants were outstanding, but only a few could place. While the judges were making thier final decisions, Perry

Philpot sang a song dedicated to a special someone in his life. Jodi Mull received an honorable mention. Dee Pierce and Turner Donaldson won third place, and Sarah Kyker won second place. Finally, the winner was Netra Landsen. All of the contestants did a magnificent job, and TWC is grateful and proud of their participation.

The Student Government Association sponsored a campus-wide cookout for residents and commuters. The cookout was a chance for students to take a break from studying and classes to enjoy the nice weather outdoors and lunch as well. The S.G.A. handed out free frisbees to all students, which was a definite crowd pleaser. The cookout was held during the spring semester, right as the weather was becoming more pleasant, and everyone wanted to be outside. The cookout was a nice, relaxing event that gave students time to rest, or mingle with friends.

It's Cram Time at TWC

By Cherelle Rowe

Endless nights of cramming, sprouting grey hairs, and oceans of stress flowing through the brains of TWC students...Some of these are not unheard of for students at TWC during finals week. Although the end of the semester is very stressful, it is also a sad time for some students because they have to leave all of their friends for the summer. During finals week students do many different things. Some go to the mountains, some study outside under the nice warm sun, some stay awake all hours of the night, and they do many other things that take creativity to think up. So, as the year comes to an end, students wrap things up by moving out and cramming for finals and await the next semester.

Rachel Voiles and Paula Maples utilize their time by studying in Anna Maynard's room before the final that they have together.

He has received a BA and MA from the University of Colorado, Boulder, and a Ph.D in History from the University of Virginia. He has previously worked in the college setting at Georgia College and State University, Francis Marion University, and Texas Wesleyan University. Dr. Armstrong came to Tennessee Wesleyan College after interim president Dr. Falany. Dr. Falany was a huge asset to our campus with his humorous jokes, stories, and friendly attitude. We enjoyed our time with him, and he will be greatly missed. We are proud to have Dr. Armstrong as our new president, and he has already become a great asset to our college. We believe that he will continue to do so in the future as well.

Nursing

TWC offers a nursing program that runs in Knoxville. Nursing students start out taking classes at TWC in Athens, but after two years they move on to Knoxville. Many partake in this program and do very well in their nursing careers. They work at an actual hospital to get hands on experience, which is great for learning. These students are doing a great job, and all that are here at TWC are proud of them. Their pictures are arranged with the staff first, then seniors, and juniors.

In his first year at Tennessee Wesleyan College, Coach Richard Northcutt lead the Lady Bulldogs through a great season with a record of 12-7. They had several big wins and narrow defeats.

With their strong offense, the girls scored over 60 goals during the season. Since the Bulldogs will lose only two seniors, Leah Johnson and Leah Leatherwood, they are sure to be stronger than ever next season.

Tasha Denis uses her amazing speed to get the ball to the goal.

Marcille Nunnally sends a long pass up the field hoping that her teammates will be able to help.

Megan Mains carefully shields the ball from the defendant.

With fancy footwork, Jacqueline Traer dribbles the ball away from the defender.

Tennessee Wesleyan College's men's soccer team had a challenging season but made it through. With several injuries taking players away from the game, the Bulldogs had a hard time staying on track. But they still did a great job.

Although the Bulldogs had a tough season, with all of the hard work and support, they still made their way to the Region Tournament. With the loss of four seniors, we will be looking forward to a fresh start for the Bulldogs next season.

As Levi Nunnally dribbles up the field, he looks for an open teammate to pass to.

Perry Philpott gives Garrett Owens a high five as he relieves him from the game.

Nick Middleton uses his dribbling skills to get the ball under control.

Coach Adams has led our Tennessee Wesleyan College golf team through a great season this year. Putting up with adverse conditions such as bad weather, this small group has become very close. So, even if these young men don't play golf with each other for the rest of their lives, they will probably still stay close friends. They are patiently awaiting next season, and all of us at TWC are looking forward to their return. They have done a great job, and we are proud.

Greek Week Sorority Style

By: Megan Kellar

Greek Week is an annual event held every year in the Spring on the TWC campus. This is a week for the two sororities on campus to bond as a Greek community, and to show their campus what Greek life is all about.

Students kicked back and relaxed with friends at the ice cream social, and sorority members socialized at the pizza

During the week each sorority has days in which they hold a special activity. Though rain limited some of the activities, the girls still managed to have a great time.

party. Greek Week really gave the sisters of the sororities a chance to come together. All in all, this is the week for Greeks to show their stuff!

Ashley Frank, Alisha Daniels, Kaitlyn Warner, Chrissy Mitchell, and Kressa McCaslin pose with their Alpha Xi Gamma sisters.

Todd Fedbedder, Katie Mann, and Elizabeth Larkin enjoy free ice cream and spending time with friends.

Going Greek

By: Heather Purser

Alpha Xi Gamma is a local sorority here at Tennessee Wesleyan that contributes not only to the campus, but also the community. The girls of Alpha Xi help organize and fund several events including the Valentines dating game, the Halloween dance, teacher appreciation gifts, helping children at a local daycare and many more. Alpha Xi's big project is Christmas shopping for and with the ABE children. Along with Christmas shopping for the kids, they also read weekly, play games, and supply them with candy and snacks. Alpha Xi Gamma's contribution to the campus and the community are various and many.

Sarah Lewis, Ashley Frank, and Chrissy Mitchell have a great time being silly during Activation 2002.

Participants in the dating game, Perry Phillipot and Sarah Lewis, are happy for the winners, Anna Maynard and Chris Lee.

In the beautiful setting of Trinity United Methodist Church, the Concert Choir rehearses before convocation. This is a frequent activity for the choir, who are often called upon to share through song for convos.

Concert Choir and Chorale

By: Harrison Hart

The Tennessee Wesleyan Choir was almost entirely composed of new faces this year, including the director himself. Keith Wheeler of Sweetwater, TN, a former TWC student, took the position in the fall of 2002. The concert choir consisted of 29 members, with a smaller, concentrated Chorale, directed by Mr. Darnell Chance, working along side it. Although this year could be considered a rebuilding year with all the newcomers, the choir's chemistry and output was nothing short of amazing. Performing in concerts in the Fall and Spring, including a five day tour through northeast Tennessee and the state of Virginia, these TWC students touched hearts and brought smiles, all the while worshipping together with thier audiences.

Adam Hubble, Jeffrey Duncan, Richard Dunkin, Will Purushotham, Heather Amann, and Jodi Mull take turns singing their parts. Some of the choir's biggest strengths this year were their key timing and ability to blend.

Travis Dixon and Edward fix to increase tone by showing more enthusiasm

The long trip is exhausting, but members found fun anyway.

Heather Amann and Heather Herren test out blocks of the 17th century in Colonial Williamsburg, VA. The day in Williamsburg was the choir's day off during their tour.

Yuri Kawakami and Noe Cabrera are nestled well in their seats with Mickey Mouse during the long trip through Virginia.

Where's Harrison? The most infamous question of the last several years was finally answered as Harrison Hart was found in the cargo bay, mistaken as a suitcase.

Much groupwork went into creating the yearbook. Anna Maynard works with Heather Purser on a page that they share.

Every now and then our staff needed to step outside and get some fresh air.

In Our Weakness, His Strength is Made Perfect

By: Cherele Rowe

The yearbook staff has been on a wild adventure this year. Our staff is comprised of five people, of which three have never worked on a yearbook. Jackie Newman, one of our sponsor, is also new to this game. Our other sponsor, Holly Bradshaw, is from Sweetwater High School. We have made a few changes from the years past to this year's book, but it worked out wonderfully. Our yearbook would not have been possible without the help and the presence of our Father. Times got rough for all who were on staff, but He made Himself known, and He helped us through the hard times. Only when we are weak can His strength truly be perfected. Nothing went right when we tried to do it on our own, but when He became our strength the Lord miraculously made things happen peacefully. This year has been a challenge, but our staff relied on the strength of our Father when we were weak; therefore, His strength has had the opportunity to be made perfect. This has been an awesome experience for all of the staff.

Staff: Editors Megan Kellar and Cherele Rowe; Heather Purser, Harrison Hart, and Anna Maynard.

When a page has been completed in the yearbook, we take a minute to mark it off the paper. As Harrison Hart does this, he feels very accomplished.

One of our sponsors, Jackie Newman takes time out of her busy schedule to work with the yearbook. Here she is again taking a minute to get her picture made.

The editors this year worked very hard. They have taken a break from a long day's work to pose for a picture.

Along with all of the other tasks a staff member is responsible for, they also have to crop pictures in order for them to fit in the layouts. Anna Maynard is doing a fantastic job cropping this picture for the baseball page.

All of the pages in the yearbook have to be put into the computer in order to be sent off to the plant. Heather Purser is working to get her pages turned in on time.

The Men's and Women's Tennis team gather before a match. Unity in the group is essential to doing well.

Adam Macinterf takes advantage of the time he has inbetween classes and studies in the Student Activities Center.

Our country has persevered through many trials this past year, but we are still standing strong just as our flag is still flying high.

Richard Dunkin and Justin McReary are playing games with a large group of people in the girls lobby. Games are always a great way to relax from the stresses of school.

A Walk to Remember

As the year of 2002-2003 comes to an end, students, faculty and staff have the privilege to look back at the year and see accomplishments that they can claim and be proud of. With this year behind us, we can only be hopeful of what the future has in store. Our country has faced many severe trials this year, but our citizens have put aside differences and united themselves joyfully. Our school, along with the rest of the country, can look up to and learn from the hard times that our country has pulled itself through for years to come. With several new faculty members this year, Tennessee Wesleyan College has also made the best of what could have been a difficult situation. So, at the close of an awesome year, all who have taken part in the existence of TWC can proudly claim, the same way we are proud to be an American, that they have been a part of a school with astonishing strength.

THE WAR ON TERRORISM

Over the course of the year, the world's attention focused on a chain of tumultuous terrorist events. In Afghanistan, the Taliban regime fell from power as U.S. troops crippled the al-Qaeda network and cleared caves in search of Osama bin Laden. World-wide, civilians and military personnel fell victim to terrorist bombs and acts of hatred. On the home front, "bioterrorism" became a common term after it was revealed that Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein was producing biological weapons. Hussein's defiance of United Nation's imposed sanctions prompted the United States to seek world support of military action against Iraq. Members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization wrestled over conflicting opinions on the issue, while North Korean leader Kim Jong Il threatened to deploy nuclear weapons if Iraq was attacked. As tensions rose among political leaders, the world watched and waited to see what the next chapter in "The War on Terrorism" would bring.
